

Arbodania is the exclusive supplier of trees from Denmark's largest and most professional Christmas-tree-growing estate, Lundbygaard estate.

Here at Collet & Co., Lundbygaard Estate, we have grown Nordmann firs for the past 40 years, and we have obtained a know-how that is second to none within all aspects of Christmas tree production.

Now, the 7th generation, Court Hunting Master, Bernt Johan Collet ensures that everything is carried out in the best way possible. Much has happened since the former Hunting Master started his pioneering work of growing Christmas trees. A large knowledge about Christmas trees combined with one of Europe's very best growing facilities makes Collet & Co the safe choice for suppliers.

Lundbygaard Estate is situated in the southern part of Denmark, and is surrounded by the Baltic Sea on three sides. In this mild location, the beautiful Nordmann fir is thriving. The long, bright, cool summers, and the coastal climate gives the trees the natural preconditions to develop into high-quality Christmas trees.

These optimum growing facilities, and the obstinate focusing on quality and logistics makes Collet & Co. Europe's most reliable Christmas tree supplier.

The production begins in the beautiful surroundings around the Shaori lake in the southern part of the Caucasian mountains. Specialists select the best seedlings, and in close collaboration with the best nurseries the optimum start for the new Christmas tree is ensured.

Each year, more than ½ million trees are planted in acreages close to the estate in order to closely follow the production. The trees are intensively nursed and cared for by a large and skilled staff, because Collet & Co. focuses on Christmas trees of the highest quality.

All the trees are carefully marked out in accordance with quality and height. The trees are continuously felled, and are consequently always fresh. The trees at Lundbygaard Estate are stump-cut twice, and are carefully measured before specialists attach their quality label. This way, a homogeneous result is ensured every year.

The trees are packed in nets directly on the pallets, which are brought to the loading site. During this process, a quality control program ensures that the trees meets Collet & Co.'s high quality requirements. The height, the amount, the quality of the felling and the net are continuously controlled.

When the trucks arrive at Lundbygaard Estate they are met by the staff of the estate, which ensures that the drivers load the correct trees. A few minutes after the loading is complete, the information is mailed to Arbodania's office, and the trees begin their journey around Europe.

The history of Collet & Co. is the history of the careful Christmas tree grower, who over the course of 50 years - has grown into Europe's leading manufacturer of quality Christmas trees. Therefore, we are proud to offer trees from this Europe's best and most reliable supplier of Christmas trees.
